WHEN IDLING IS ALLOWED:

- ◆ Buses (other than school buses) can idle 10 minutes prior to passenger boarding and when passengers are on board
- ◆ If a vehicle is stuck in traffic, while stopped at a light or while queuing
- ◆ When forced to remain motionless due to adverse weather conditions (such as being stuck in a snow storm)
- ◆ During engine testing, servicing or repairing
- ◆ When operating equipment such as a crane, turning the mixer of a cement truck, garbage collection, etc.
- ◆ When preventing a health emergency (such as special needs children that require a certain temperature)
- ◆ Idling of military vehicles during training
- ◆ Idling by vehicles operating equipment as prescribed by the Americans with Disabilities Act
- ◆ When idling is necessary to power a heater or air conditioner while using a sleeper berth (Usually on large semi-trucks)*

*This exception is NOT valid when a vehicle is within 100 feet of a restricted area. The law defines a restricted area as "any real property zoned for individual or multifamily housing units that has one or more of such units on it". Simply put, a "restricted area" would be any type of home or dwelling. In addition, idling within 100 feet of schools is also limited to 5 minutes as defined in a different California regulation (Section 2480, title 13, California Code of Regulations).
